Pros

Meet our pros! They make our club the sweet spot for developing your game.

Come off the courts just about any time of the day, and one of these folks will probably ask about that new serve you're working on.

Because whether they were world-ranked in doubles just a few years ago or are starting to break into the big time now, Frontenac pros are all ab your game.

Plus your friends' games.Your spouse's game. And especially your kids' games.

From clinic to clinic, week to week, year to year, our pros get to know your whole game — your strokes, your strategy and what you need to get t next level.

So, steadily, you're learning new skills and using them in your games and matches. And getting to that next level. But mostly, you're having fun an getting a great workout with your pals and your family.

Robust, comprehensive, and easy-to-use frameworks are a must for working on the Web. Whether you're a hardcore developer or simply an aspiring blogger, you can use dedicated frameworks to write less code, produce more accurate results, and do your job better.

As a serial site developer and blogger, I've found that the most valuable tool one can have is a refined template system that solves fundamental development, design, and publishing problems, including:

- pinpoint control over the SEO on every page of your site as well as indexing controls that help you minimize the undesirable WordPress page bloat
- rigorous adherence to Web standards, and more specifically, a proper XHTML structure
- polished typography with finely-tuned geometrics for maximum legibility that will not only engage users more quickly, but also engage them on a subconscious level
- a default layout that favors usability and clarity but is also flexible enough to accommodate any conceivable design customization
- forward-compatibility that minimizes—or in some cases completely eliminates—upgrade headaches (I like to call it futureproofing)

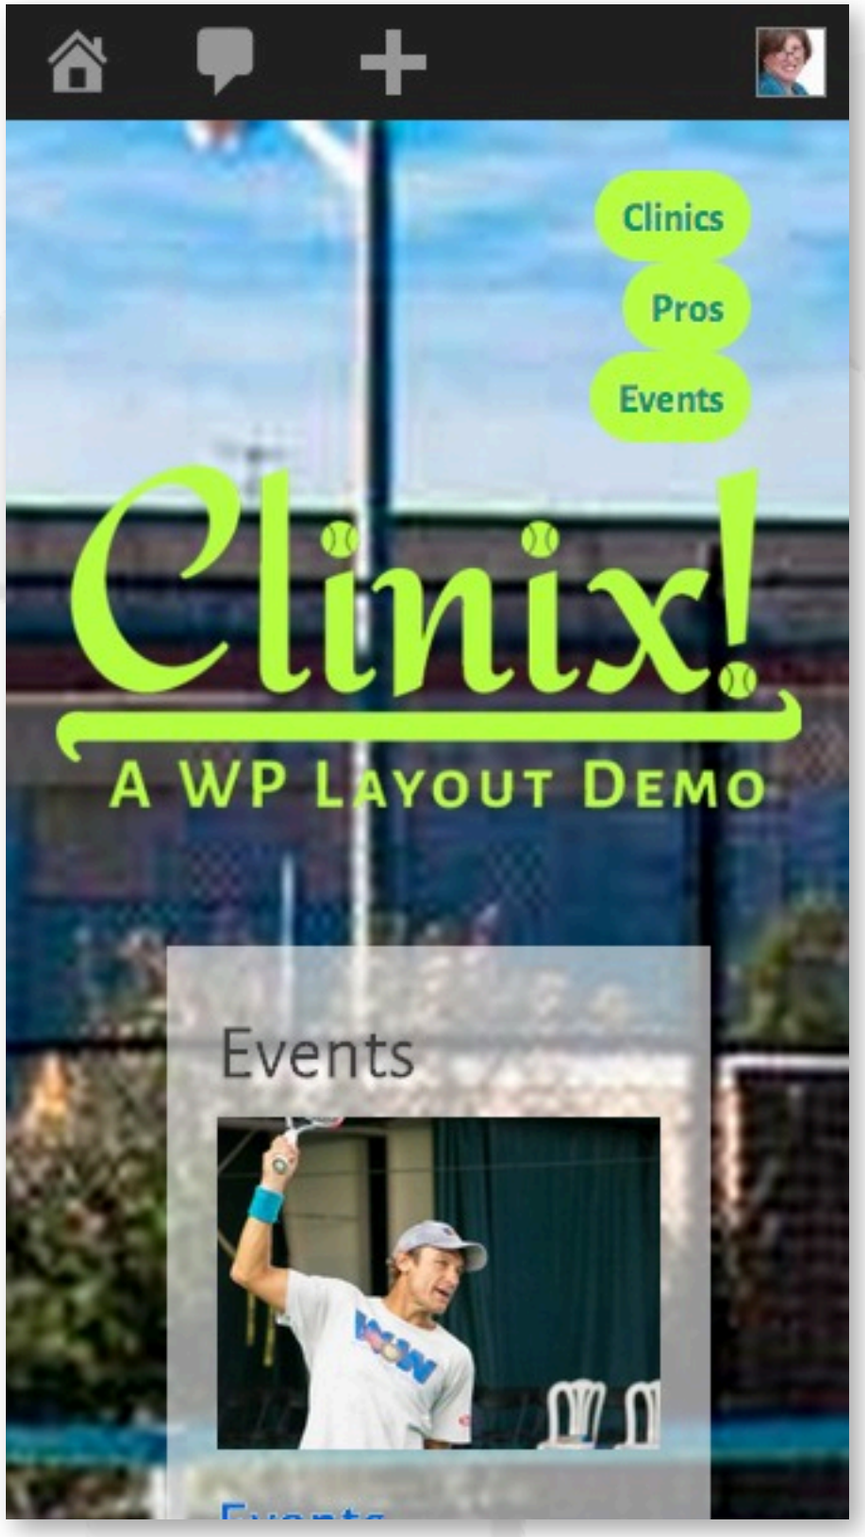
Things we didn’t cover, but can.

Typography.

- Why do I self-host my type?
- Choosing faces that work together.

Laying out the header - it was different in the two frameworks.



Phone versions.

- Phones represent more than half of all web traffic.
- No time for a fully responsive design?
- At least make sure the site works on a phone.

Meaning:

- Body copy we can read. (Not 2px cap height.)
- Do you like modals?

Questions?

Thanks!
